FINDINGS, CONCLUSIONS AND RECOMMENDATION TO DISMISS PETITION FOR WRIT
OF HABEAS CORPUS UNDER 28 U.S.C. § 2241

Petitioner, a pretrial detainee confined in the Gray County Jail, has filed this pro se habeas petition under 28 U.S.C. section 2241 against custodian Gray County Sheriff Michael Ryan challenging the constitutionality of his continued confinement. For the following reasons, the petition should be dismissed without prejudice.

BACKGROUND

Petitioner claims criminal Cause Nos. 10,989 (evading arrest/detention with a vehicle), 10990 (possession of a controlled substance), and 11,003 (tamper with intent to impair evidence), have been pending against him in the 223rd Judicial District Court in Gray County since his arrest for the offenses on March 22, 2018. Petitioner appears to assert his indictment is invalid because he was not indicted for the offenses until October 12, 2018, more than 180 days after his arrest, in violation of Texas procedural law. Petitioner also asserts appointed counsel has been ineffective in his pretrial representation of petitioner, having not made contact with petitioner or filed any motions with the state trial court on petitioner's behalf. Petitioner argues his continued confinement on the pending criminal charges violates his federal constitutional rights and that the State's failure to try the case denies him his speedy trial rights. Petitioner requests dismissal of the state charges and his immediate release from pretrial detention, or a speedy trial on the charges.

ANALYSIS

Under 28 U.S.C. section 2241, a state pre-trial detainee may raise constitutional claims related to his confinement in a federal habeas proceeding. See Stringer v. Williams, 161 F.3d 259, 262 (5th Cir. 1998). (“Pretrial petitions are properly brought under § 2241, which applies to persons in custody regardless of whether final judgment has been rendered and regardless of the present status of the case pending against him.” (internal quotes omitted)). However, to warrant habeas relief under section 2241, a state petitioner must be in custody and must have exhausted all available state remedies. Braden v. 30th Judicial Circuit Court of Ky., 410 U.S. 484 (1973). Although exhaustion of state remedies is mandated by statute only for post-trial habeas claims under 28 U.S.C. section 2254(b), well-established Fifth Circuit precedent holds that the federal courts should abstain from exercising jurisdiction over pretrial habeas claims if the issues raised in the petition may be resolved either by trial on the merits in the state court or by other state procedures available to the petitioner. See Dickerson v. Louisiana, 816 F.2d 220, 225 (5th Cir. 1987); Brown v. Estelle, 530 F.2d 1280, 1284 (5th Cir. 1976). Federal habeas relief should not be used as a “pre-trial motion forum for state prisoners.” Braden, 410 U.S. at 493. Exceptions to the exhaustion requirement apply only in extraordinary circumstances. Fuller v. Rich, 11 F.3d 61, 62 (5th Cir. 1994) (per curiam).

The online electronic docket of the Texas Court of Criminal Appeals reflects petitioner has not filed a petition for state habeas relief with that court or otherwise presented the claims he raises in the instant federal habeas petition to that state court. Consequently, petitioner has not exhausted his state court remedies. Petitioner has not shown that trial or existing state procedures, including pretrial habeas review, direct appeal, and post-trial state habeas review, are insufficient to protect his constitutional rights, nor has he argued, much less shown, any extraordinary circumstances warranting excusal from the exhaustion requirement.

Moreover, petitioner's claims and requested relief are subject to application of the Younger abstention doctrine. The Younger abstention doctrine discourages federal courts from interfering with state criminal proceedings except in extraordinary circumstances where the danger of irreparable loss is both great and immediate. Younger v. Harris, 401 U.S. 37, 45 (1971). Its purpose is to protect on federalism grounds the state courts' opportunity to confront and resolve initially any constitutional issues arising within their jurisdiction and also to limit federal interference in the state adjudicatory process. See Dickerson, 816 F.3d at 225; Braden, 410 U.S. at 490–91. In short, it is to prevent federal habeas relief's use as a “pre-trial motion forum for state prisoners.” Braden, 410 U.S. at 493.

The Younger doctrine requires federal courts to decline to exercise jurisdiction over a state criminal defendant's claims when three conditions are met: “(1) the federal proceeding would interfere with an ongoing state judicial proceeding; (2) the state has an important interest in regulating the subject matter of the claim; and (3) the [petitioner] has an adequate opportunity in the state proceedings to raise constitutional challenges.” Bice v. La. Pub. Defender Bd., 677 F.3d 712, 716 (5th Cir. 2012). All prerequisites for abstention under Younger are met in the instant case. Petitioner has failed to show any special or exceptional circumstances warranting this Court's interference. This section 2241 petition should be dismissed because of the failure to exhaust state court remedies and the Younger abstention doctrine.
